PAM COSTANZO JOINS YOUNG, ANDERSON

We are very excited to announce that Pam Costanzo has joined Young, Anderson effective June 1, 2020. Pam attended law school after completing her masters' in Occupational Health and Safety and working as an OHS Manager. She articulated at a small labour law firm and was called to the bar in 2007. Pam has practiced exclusively in the areas of labour, employment and human rights, representing clients before arbitrators, the Labour Relations Board, the Human Rights Tribunal, and the courts in BC. She has also conducted workplace investigations for clients in the public and private sector. Pam is known for her practical approach to employment problems.

Pam's legal experience brings even more depth to our growing labour, employment and human rights law practice.
